1 This action is in response to the communication filed on 6/7/2007.

2 DETAILED ACTION

3 Remarks

4 The examiner notes that claim 26, line 6 (on page 8 line 2 of the response) appears to be
5 unnecessary to the claim language and inconsistent with the other remaining claims.

6 Response to Arguments

7 Applicant's arguments filed 6/7/2007 have been fully considered but they are not
8 persuasive.

9 The claim amendments made in an effort to overcome the rejection of claims 25 and 40
10 under 35 USC 101, have been given careful consideration, but remain directed towards non-
11 statutory subject matter. As these claims are directed towards methods for manipulating data in a
12 specific manner, the claims are directed towards an abstract idea and therefore are not tangible.
13 The newly added limitation of making the data available to an entity is not a physical 14 transformation outside of the computer, and does not provide any practical application to the 15 data, and as such the claims remain non-statutory. Again, the examiner recommends 16 incorporating the limitations of claims 26 and 41 into their respective parent claims, which will
17 resolve this issue, as well as remain consistent with the remainder of the independent claims.

18 Claims 20-26 and 29-41 have been examined. Claims 1-19 and 27-28 have been 19 cancelled.

20 All objections and rejections not set forth below have been withdrawn.

21 Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

22 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Art Unit: 2131

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 25, and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Regarding claims 25, and 40, a method which merely manipulates data is claimed.

A claim that requires one or more acts to be performed defines a process. However, not all processes are statutory under 35 U.S.C. 101. Schrader, 22 F.3d at 296, 30 USPQ2d at 1460. To be statutory, a claimed computer-related process must either: (A) result in a physical transformation outside the computer for which a practical application in the technological arts is either disclosed in the specification or would have been known to a skilled artisan (discussed in i) below), or (B) be limited to a practical application within the technological arts (discussed in ii) below). See Diamond v. Diehr, 450 U.S. at 183-84, 209 USPQ at 6 (quoting Cochrane v. Deener, 94 U.S. 780, 787-88 (1877)) ("A [statutory] process is a mode of treatment of certain materials to produce a given result. It is an act, or a series of acts, performed upon the subject-matter to be transformed and reduced to a different state or thing.... The process requires that certain things should be done with certain substances, and in a certain order; but the tools to be used in doing this may be of secondary consequence."). See also Alappat, 33 F.3d at 1543, 31 USPQ2d at 1556-57 (quoting Diamond v. Diehr, 450 U.S. at 192, 209 USPQ at 10). See also id. at 1569, 31 USPQ2d at 1578-79 (Newman, J., concurring) ("unpatentability of the principle does not defeat patentability of its practical applications") (citing O'Reilly v. Morse, 56 U.S. (15 How.) at 114-19). If a physical transformation occurs outside the computer, a disclosure that permits a skilled artisan to practice the claimed invention, i.e., to put it to a practical use, is sufficient. On the other hand, it is necessary for the claimed invention taken as a whole to produce a practical application if there is only a transformation of signals or data inside a computer or if a process merely manipulates concepts or converts one set of numbers into another.

See MPEP § 2106.2(b)

Although the claims do recite using the private values in an authentication or signature method, the claim provides no details as to how the private values are used. Therefore, the claims recite only data transformation inside a computer. As such, claims 25 and 40 fail to meet the statutory requirements of 35 USC 101.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 20-24, and 29-39 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for indicating allowable subject matter: The reasons for indicating allowable subject matter are the same as those provided in the office action dated 5/3/2005.

Claims 25 and 40 are rejected, claims 26 and 41 are objected, and claims 21-23, and 29-39 are allowable over the prior art.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
